OH, BABY!

Everything is new and beautiful at The Jackson Hospital Family Birth Center.

Here's to a healthy 2016!

DEAR FRIENDS:

A new year brings forth growth, change and new beginnings. That's definitely the case at Jackson. We have a wonderful newly renovated Family Birth Center to welcome many new lives into the world. Funded completely by the Jackson Hospital Foundation, the $3 million renovations integrate comfort and convenience and feature state-of-the-art construction and equipment to make your birthing experience the best it can be.

We have more reasons to celebrate as Blue Cross Blue Shield recognized Jackson Hospital as a Blue Distinction Center+ for hip and knee replacements, maternity care, and spine surgery. Blue Distinction Centers have a proven track record for delivering better results—including fewer complications and readmissions—than facilities without these recognitions.

Don't forget: March 30 is National Doctors' Day. Please consider showing your appreciation with a gift to the Jackson Hospital Foundation in honor of your doctor.

Thank you for entrusting your family's health to Jackson Hospital. We look forward to sharing our new facilities and services with you in 2016.

JACKSON VASCULAR SURGERY RECEIVES VASCULAR TESTING ACCREDITATION BY THE IAC

Cardiovascular diseases—disorders of the heart and blood vessels—are the No. 1 cause of death in the United States. On average, every 39 seconds, an American dies of cardiovascular disease. Early detection of life-threatening heart disorders, stroke and other diseases is possible through the use of vascular testing procedures performed in hospitals, outpatient centers and physicians' offices. There are many factors that contribute to an accurate diagnosis based on vascular testing, among them the skill of the technologist(s) and the interpreting physician(s), the type of instrument used, and quality assurance measures.

The Jackson Clinic Vascular Surgery has been granted a three-year term of accreditation in vascular testing in the areas of peripheral venous testing by the Intersocietal Accreditation Commission (IAC). This means that the Jackson Clinic Vascular Surgery has undergone a thorough review of its operational and technical components by a panel of experts. The IAC grants accreditation only to those facilities that are found providing high-quality

SKILLED HANDS

The Jackson Clinic Vascular Specialists—Brian Sellers, DO, and Gino Castaneda, MD—performed an endovascular repair of a thoracic aortic aneurysm, a first at Jackson Hospital, in late 2015. A thoracic aortic aneurysm, an abnormal bulge in a weakened wall of the aorta in the chest area, can cause a variety of symptoms and often life-threatening complications. Due to the serious risks it presents, timely diagnosis and treatment of a thoracic aneurysm are crucial. Endovascular repair of thoracic aneurysms is generally less painful and has a lower risk of complications than traditional surgery because the incisions are smaller. Endovascular aortic aneurysm procedures also allow you to leave the hospital sooner and recover more quickly after your aorta repair. Dr. Sellers' recent patient now has a great life-expectancy since having this successful procedure. The Jackson Clinic Vascular Specialists continue to strive for excellence.

DISTINGUISHED IN YOUR SERVICE

Blue Cross Blue Shield has recognized Jackson Hospital as a Blue Distinction Center+ for Hip and Knee Replacements, Maternity Care, and Spine Surgery.

Blue Cross Blue Shield's evaluation criteria are based on what impacts you and your care the most, including:

- The expertise of the medical team
- The number of times the facility has performed the procedure

- The facility's track record for procedure results

Quality remains key. Only those facilities that first meet nationally established, objective quality measures for Blue Distinction Centers will be considered for designation as a Blue Distinction Center+.

Blue Distinction Centers have a proven track record for delivering better results—including fewer complications and readmissions—than facilities without these recognitions.

Blue Distinction Centers (BDC) met overall quality measures for patient safety and outcomes, developed with input from the medical community. A Local Blue Plan may require additional criteria for facilities located in its own service area; for details, contact your Local Blue Plan. Blue Distinction Centers+ (BDC+) also met cost measures that address consumers' need for affordable healthcare. Each facility's cost of care is evaluated using data from its Local Blue Plan. Facilities in CA, ID, NY, PA, and WA may lie in two Local Blue Plans' areas, resulting in two evaluations for cost of care; and their own Local Blue Plans decide whether one or both cost of care evaluation(s) must meet BDC+ national criteria. National criteria for BDC and BDC+ are displayed on www.bcbs.com. Individual outcomes may vary. For details on a provider's in-network status or your own policy's coverage, contact your Local Blue Plan and ask your provider before making an appointment. Women and heart attacks

BE AWARE of subtler

If your dad said, “It feels like there’s an elephant sitting on my chest,” chances are you’d dial 911 and tell the operator, “We think it’s a heart attack.” But what if your mom said, “I’m totally exhausted, and I feel sick to my stomach”—would you consider her wise to take some stomach-settling medicine and a nap?

Would you know that her nausea and extreme fatigue could be signs she’s having a heart attack?

Even though every 90 seconds a woman in the U.S. has a heart attack, many people don’t know a woman’s symptoms can sometimes be different and more subtle than a man’s. And when a woman doesn’t realize she’s having a heart attack, she may not get the emergency care she needs to prevent possibly fatal damage to her heart.

Know the symptoms

For both men and women, the most common signs of a heart attack are:

- Pain, pressure, squeezing or discomfort in the chest
- Sudden cold sweats
- Fatigue for no reason
- Sudden dizziness or lightheadedness
- Shortness of breath for no apparent reason
- Nausea or vomiting

Of these, the last three tend to be more common for women than for men. Women are actually twice as likely as men to vomit or be nauseated during a heart attack. They might also:

- Have pain or pressure in the lower chest, stomach and upper abdomen
- Feel really tired
- Experience sudden dizziness, with or without fainting

Wynne Crawford, MD, of Montgomery Cardiovascular Associates, PC, says: “Heart disease is an equal opportunity disease. Women just happen to get it about 10 years later than men.”

More than half of women having a heart attack report generalized weakness that’s not related to exercising. For some, extreme breathlessness—also without exertion—is the only sign they’re having a heart attack.

According to a survey by the American Heart Association, many women would be reluctant to call for emergency medical help if they thought they were having a heart attack. Yet it’s vital to get immediate help. Treatment is most effective if given within one hour after symptoms start.

So if you or anyone you know has one or more symptoms of a heart attack, call 911 right away. Don’t wait more than five minutes to get help.

The Joint Commission has awarded Jackson Hospital with its gold seal of approval for heart attack care (AMI). To earn the seal, the hospital demonstrated compliance with The Joint Commission's national standards for quality and safety in heart attack care. The certification awards the hospital's dedication to continuous compliance with The Joint Commission's state-of-the-art standards.

"Achievement of an AMI certification from The Joint Commission speaks volumes about the high quality of care given by Jackson Hospital's medical team to the patient experiencing a heart attack," says CEO Joe Riley. "We are extremely proud to be the first hospital in Alabama to earn this designation, and we are even more proud of what it means for the communities we serve – excellent care for the heart attack patient right here in the River Region."

CORD-IALITY YOURS

The umbilical cord, the placenta and the blood they contain are usually discarded after birth. But they can be lifesaving.

Have you considered donating cord blood? It's simple and painless; it's free; and it will not affect you, the baby or the birthing process.

What is cord blood?

Cord blood is the blood remaining in the umbilical cord and placenta after a baby is born. Cord blood is rich in blood-forming cells.

How is cord blood used?

Each year, thousands of people are diagnosed with cancer and other life-threatening diseases, such as leukemia or sickle cell disease. These can be treated with a cord blood transplant. Cord blood transplants replace diseased blood-forming cells with healthy cells.

The treatment process is similar to a bone marrow transplant. Like marrow, cord blood is rich in stem cells, which generate red blood cells to resist disease. A cord blood unit does not have to match a patient's tissue type as closely as donated marrow does. This means more patients are able to receive transplants.

Who needs a cord blood transplant?

- Patients in need of a transplant quickly.
Cord blood units are stored and ready to use immediately.
- Patients who have a hard time finding a matched bone marrow donor.
 - Patients from racially or ethnically diverse communities, who often have uncommon tissue types. Because cord blood does not have to match the patient as closely as bone marrow, it may offer more people from diverse racial and ethnic communities a second chance at life.

Is there any cost for donation?

There is no cost for donating cord blood to a public cord bank, such as LifeCord. LifeCord incurs the cost of collecting, testing, processing and storing the cord blood.

How is cord blood donated?

Donating cord blood to a public cord blood bank involves talking with your doctor or midwife about your decision to donate. If possible, register with LifeCord staff. Upon arriving at the hospital, remind the labor and delivery team that you are donating your umbilical cord blood. After the delivery of your baby, the blood remaining in the umbilical cord will be collected and tested.

STEPPING RIGHT INTO THE GARDEN

Thomas and Katie Sveta Crews, with their son, George, who was born at Jackson in 2012. Katie will deliver her newest addition in early 2016 at the Family Birth Center at Jackson Hospital.

Housed on the fourth floor in Jackson Hospital's north wing, the Family Birth Center at Jackson Hospital is the ideal place to have your baby. Funded completely by the Jackson Hospital Foundation, the renovations integrate comfort and convenience and feature state-of-the-art construction and equipment to make your birthing experience the best it can be.

Babies are born every day, but at the Family Birth Center at Jackson Hospital, we don't treat childbirth like an everyday event. From expert care teams to comfortable labor, delivery and recovery suites to our special care nursery, the experience is exceptional for mom and baby.

Enid Probst and her assistant, Celeen Robertson. The mosaic was designed to uplift the spirits of the patients, families and staff of the Family Birth Center. It is like stepping into a flower garden full of life and transformation—a beautiful place because of its vibrant diversity of life forms and colors. The whole garden lifts up its voice to sing with the nightingale, which is warbling its melody of joy.

The details of the mosaic are concentrated on its lower third. That is intentional, considering the many children that pass through the hallway. Take a minute to identify the flowers and search for the bees, ladybugs, frog, rabbit, butterflies and other creatures featured!

The overall color scheme is light, balanced by cheerful accents of orchid, fresh green, rouge, sky blue and aqua. The Jackson Hospital Foundation and Total Image by Capitol Filmworks hosted a River Region photography contest to provide unique nature imagery for the Family Birth Center that shows new life.

“The first impression for visitors is that they have arrived at a special place,” says Janet McQueen, Vice President of Marketing and Development.

Colorful images display selected works by local amateur photographers, Jackson Hospital employees and photography students at Booker T. Washington Magnet High School. The collection is presented free-floating on specially coated aluminum plates that take on a magical luminescence with an almost three-dimensional effect.

Right at home

Rooms have a family zone with comfortable sleeping and seating accommodations. Safety is a priority. We use quality materials and design details to prevent infection.

“Welcoming a new baby is such an exciting time for families, and we want our Family Birth Center to reflect the joy that comes with new life,” McQueen says. “These renovations give our new moms spacious labor and delivery rooms doubling as recovery suites, while giving our physicians new state-of-the-art equipment they need to make Jackson Hospital a premier location for labor and delivery in the River Region.”

Meet a Jackson mom!

Katie Svela Crews is no stranger to Jackson Hospital. In 2012, she chose Jackson as the place to deliver her first-born, George. Now that the Family Birth Center is open, she is returning to have her second child. We asked her about her past experience as well as her hopes for her new bundle of joy, who is expected to arrive in March.

Q What did you like most about having your first child at Jackson?

I loved the spacious rooms and the personal attention that I received. David Kouri, MD; my nurse, Karen Bear; and the other staff made my experience flawless. I felt that I was surrounded by professionals who actually care and love their work. Knowing someone is going to do their best to accommodate and take care of you gives you a strong sense of comfort.

Q What are you looking forward to this time around?

I look forward to the new facility—a new, clean and comfortable place to have my baby. Having room for family and visitors makes it feel more like home instead of a hospital room.

Q What made you choose Jackson again?

The staff, facility and overwhelming sense of security made me choose Jackson again. My past experience gives me hope that I will have another amazing birth at Jackson Hospital. We live on the other side of town, but we choose to drive the extra miles because the quality of care will make it worth our while.

LIGHTS LOVE

In honor or in memory of loved ones and people special to them, many people gave to Lights of Love in 2015. Each gift of $15 purchased a light for the Lights of Love tree. Gifts of $100 or more purchased a miniature Moravian star, and gifts of $500 or more a miniature angel. The tree shone with light, thanks to all of you!
